The guide number for this unit is 120, which is one of the more powerful flash units out there, and it makes using this for bounce or diffusion flash very easy. When testing, I found it difficult to find a shot where this flash didn't have enough power to illuminate the subject, even with a slower f/stop.

The Sunpak 433D does have manual control (Full, 1/2, 1/4, 1/8, 1/16) Some versions of the Sunpak 433AF have no manual control, but some versions do. The 433D is a nice manual flash almost identical to the Sunpak 383. But, the 433D's lacks a sync connector (hotshoe only) of the 383.
